DEAR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN (AND FUTURE SPONSORS),

The digital transformation has reached all areas of our society. Digital Humanities are at the vanguard of this innovation, developing digital methods and resources to investigate our cultural heritage, and to create, share, convey and preserve knowledge.

We want to invite you to become a part of this vanguard by contributing to the Digital Humanities Conference 2023, hosted at the University of Graz under the aptly named theme of "Collaboration as Opportunity".

Since the conference will attract more than 1.000 colleagues from all over the world – with a special focus on South Eastern Europe – and gather innovative thinkers from the intersection of humanities, cultural heritage and computational studies, it will provide a perfect opportunity to showcase your enterprise or organisation to an international audience and attract international interest and connections.

Below, you will find more information on our field of research, our conference and the sponsoring packages available for supporters of DH2023. If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact us.

In keeping with our conference theme, we are looking forward to this opportunity to collaborate with you!

Georg Vogeler
Professor for Digital Humanities at the University of Graz
On behalf of the DH2023 Local Organising Team

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

DIGITAL HUMANITIES (DH) are at the intersection of computing or digital technologies and the disciplines of the humanities. It involves the development and use of digital resources and methods in the humanities, as well as the analysis of their application. DH scholarship means collaborative, transdisciplinary, and computationally engaged research, teaching, and publishing.

The Alliance of Digital Humanities Organizations (ADHO) promotes and supports digital research and teaching across all humanities disciplines, acting as a community-based advisory force, and supporting excellence in research, publication, collaboration and training.

The annual ADHO Digital Humanities Conference is the central and largest event of the international DH community and unites scholars from across the globe, presenting them with a unique opportunity for the exchange of their work and ideas and the fostering of future collaborations.

The conference theme "Collaboration as Opportunity" showcases transdisciplinary and transnational collaboration, with a special focus on the South-Eastern European DH community. It will explore how mutual empowerment and collaboration of neighboring countries – regardless of continent and geopolitical placement – can transform regional hubs of expertise to international networks of excellent research, for the benefit of the global DH community.

The Centre for Information Modelling - Austrian Centre for Digital Humanities at the University of Graz was established in 2013, hosting a research data repository and publication platform and introducing Austria's first Digital Humanities Master Degree. In recognition of the Centre's international reputation and connectedness, the University of Graz has been trusted with hosting the Annual Digital Humanities Conference 2023 with an expected audience of more than 1.000 colleagues from across the globe at the Messe Congress Graz.
